Supposed Madman Released.
A man, who said he was Peter Moran, a driver, of 121 East Twenty-third street, was taken to the Eastern District Hospital in Brooklyn, yesterday, suffering from hydrophobia. In the ambulance and afterwards at the hospital he snarled and growled like a dog, biting everything that came within his reach. In a few hours he became rational and demanded to be set free. The surgeons unwillingly let him go, and he walked off towards the Broadway ferries leading to New York.
